Sleep now, little one, the grassy plains are still,
Dm Am E7
the cattle rest beneath the stars, upon the open hill.
Sleep now, little one, the harp has gone to rest, tomorrow's sun will find the llanos, bright upon its crest.

“Sleep now, little one, the grassy plains are still, the cattle rest beneath the stars, upon the open hill. Sleep now, little one, the harp has gone to rest, tomorrow's sun will find the llanos, bright upon its crest.”
