Nne, Nne, Nwa M

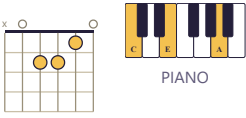

Igbo Lullaby · Nigeria · Key: A minor · ~58 BPM

Am Dm Am
Sleep now, little one, nne is here by your side,
Dm Am E7
the yams are safely gathered in, the moon climbs high and wide.
Sleep now, little one, the compound's gone to rest, tomorrow's sun will find you held close upon my chest.

“Nne” is the Igbo word for mother, often used as a term of affection for children too. This original lullaby draws on Igbo traditions of the yam harvest, moonlit evenings, and the safety of the family compound.
