In Punjab, and across Pakistan's many regional traditions — Sindhi, Balochi, Pashto, Punjabi — lullabies form a quiet, essential thread of family life, sung by mothers and grandmothers in every household. Rarely written down, they live entirely by ear, reinvented gently from one generation of singers to the next.

Traditional Punjabi lullaby style. The English lyrics are an original singable arrangement offered as a respectful tribute to Pakistan's regional lullaby traditions.
